UNIVERSITY JAZZ WORKSHOP TO PERFORM
IN STEVENSVILLE MONDAY, MARCH 1

MISSOULA--

The University of Montana Jazz Workshop will present two concerts in the Stevensville High School Gymnasium on Monday, March 1. The first concert will be at a school assembly at 3 p.m. The second concert will be a public performance at 8 p.m. Monday.

Commenting on the evening concert, Alan B. Benson, elementary school music instructor in Stevensville, who is assisting in planning the two concerts, said, "We are inviting all the schools in the Bitterroot Valley as well as the general public to the evening concert." Schools invited include those in Corvallis, Darby, Florence, Hamilton and Victor.

The concert at the school assembly will be free to students. Admission to the evening performance will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students.

instructor
Benson and Scott Eddington, who is music/for Stevensville Junior High School and Stevensville High School, are coordinating the Jazz Workshop appearances.

The UM Jazz Workshop is composed of 20 University students. The student instrumental group is directed by Lance R. Boyd, director of jazz studies on the Missoula campus.
